

The Rise of HXM

Human capital management (HCM) is no longer enough. Today, organizations need human experience management (HXM).

HCM was designed to support HR-driven processes:

HCM helped you manage:

Payroll

Training

Hiring

HCM wasn't designed around the needs of employees.

Work has changed dramatically

In our new world, businesses need to:

Handle unpredictable customer demand

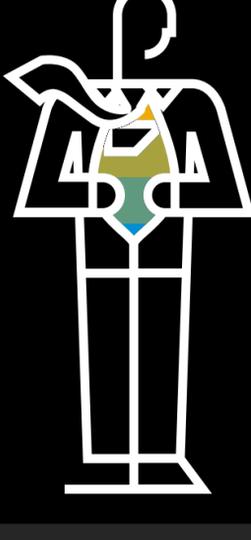

Switch supply chains quickly

Satisfy soaring customer expectations

Roll with the unexpected and emerge successfully

This means employees must be and do their best

Organizations must understand how employees work and what they need to be successful.

HCM is no longer enough.

Step forward HXM.

With HXM you can listen to employees in real time.

Continuous feedback loops help you to:

Understand how they feel, in the moment

Find out how they're performing

Discover what they really need to excel

HXM gives you breakthrough tools

You can reinvent people's experiences at work to make what they do easier, more intuitive and seamless by:

Empowering them with the right data at the right time

Providing them guidance on how to improve employee experiences

Reducing manual work to make everyone more efficient

This all leads to a more engaged and productive workforce.

HXM represents a cultural shift

It recognizes that business success hinges on putting people first.

HXM goes beyond warm words: You get the tools to make it happen.

Everyone benefits: candidates, employees, contingent workers, managers, and HR leaders.

Experience Wins with HXM

Best-in-class employee experiences create exceptional businesses.

Discover more about HXM now

Read the full article or learn more about the ways to Experience Wins with HXM.

